Shout outs:

Beautiful Work:

Blog of the week:

I have to shout out to Y6 and the staff who have supported them this week! Every child has given it their very best and this is all we can ask of them! Well done guys - we are very proud!

Eve, in Y4, has been asked by a friend if she had any old/spare clothes that she could give to a Ukrainian girl who arrived in the UK this week.

Eve has kindly sorted out some cuddly toys, dolls, fidgets, pens and bobbles as well as her clothes.

We love how generous Eve is and willing to share her things with another girl! We are very proud of you!

The school blog has blown me away this week! We've had exciting fieldwork in Y1 and Y2, beautiful writing in Y4, Y5 have been rocking their music lessons and also enjoyed being biologists looking at the functions of the heart!

Please take a look at our school blog!

Expedition:

Another busy week has seen our children immersing themselves further in our current expeditions. EYFS have been busy designing postcards and have also had a visit from Mr Dan who performed a Punch and Judy show. KS1 took part in important field work, visiting Weston Park in Sheffield. Throughout the day they looked at maps of Sheffield and England, touched and played with artefacts/ toys and studied different periods in history. In Y3/4, children have continued to learn about slavery and how this links to the sugar trade. This week the children wrote emotive diary entries based on the experiences of Mary Prince. Y5 have begun their second case study of science. They have learnt about the circulatory system and its role in keeping the human body alive. They then moved onto becoming authentic scientists by dissecting a real heart to make connections to their theoretical studies. This experience has deepened their knowledge and understanding of how the heart is structured and how it works. For more information, why not check out our expedition sites?

Crew:

This week saw Green Top take part in 'Better World Day'. An exclusive preview of 'Dear World', a song written by our Y3/4 children about the climate emergency was screened internationally.
