

The Children's Commissioner for England has published an innovative and much-needed guide for parents and carers to have discussions with their children about online sexual harassment. The guide, which is in part built upon the experiences and voices of young people, provides adults with practical advice on how to navigate discussions with their own children.

The new guide 'Talking to your children about online sexual harassment' is available from the Office of the Children's Commissioner.
