School's support for the friends in Nepal

By Lucy Purdy

A SCHOOL in Edgware which has connections to the victims of the Nepal earthquake collected £2,000 during a fundraising day last week.

Pupils at Woodcroft Primary School wore crimson ribbons, created a picture using donated coins and sent messages to Nagarjuna Academy Kids World in Kathmandu.

The families of ten pupils at the school, in Goldbeaters Grove, have Nepalese connections, some of whom lost loved ones in the tragedy, and Woodcroft is twinned with the Nagarjuna Academy.

Headteacher Craig Tallon visited Nepal in 2013, with assistant head Kay Vanner, and saw several of the historic monuments which have been destroyed.

Mr Tallon told The Press: "It was a day of mixed emotions. We have a strong Nepalese community at this school and to see the images of the earthquakes was shocking."

"But it has also brought the community at this school together. The families have been incredibly stoic and strong and we have, of course, offered our support."

Mr Tallon and colleagues have been in touch with teachers in Kathmandu, some of whom were forced to sleep in the playground in the school bus, such was the damage to their homes.

The two schools have taken part in joint projects over the past five years. On Friday, Woodcroft pupils created a Nepalese garden and made flags containing messages of support.

"Many pupils have also carried out their own fundraising projects," added Mr Tallon. "They have been really touched by what has happened."
