

Hello my little class I miss you sooooo much.

It's sometimes tricky working from home isn't it, there's always something else to do, washing, ironing and watching tv (oops), so I hope you're trying your best to keep doing a little bit school work every day.

How are you getting on with your number bonds to 10 and your 10 times table on Hit the Button? Some of you were doing amazing getting up to nearly 50 in 1 minute!! Superstars, every one of you, keep practising because we all know practise makes. . . . perfect, a saying that we often say in our classroom don't we? Remember doing your best is better than being the best so just keep trying the best you can. Are you remembering to go onto RMeasimaths? Don't forget to look on the front of your reading diary for your log on code if you've forgot it.

How are you doing with your reading? If you've read all of your reading books then remember you can try to read anything at all at home. One of the books you might read with your mam and dad, a comic or anything at all you have at home, give it a go, you might just surprise yourself xx

Keep exercising if you can, run round your garden if you have one, if not just put some music on and bop around the living room, that's what I do, so glad you can't see me ha ha, because I think you would laugh but just in a fun way xx

Miss Wales says hello too and misses you all, she hopes you have been practising your phonics. She's been enjoying walking with her dogs on Cleadon Hills but hopes we can all be back together soon.

Mrs Coldwell says hi, she's been so busy cooking at home and bringing us nice healthy (ha ha) snacks into school.

Let me know if there's anything you've been up to, send me some pictures if you can.

Take care of yourselves my little ones and keep yourselves safe, hope to see you all soon and that we get back to school all safe and well.

Miss you all, love from

Mrs Catchpole, Miss Wales and Mrs Coldwell.
