

Week beginning 27th November 2017.

The Jolly Postman

We have loved all the work we have done this week on the Jolly Postman. We ended up getting in a right muddle with all of our parcels and letters but the children have done an excellent job of putting them in size order, recognising the numbers and matching them to the right houses and counting them carefully. Some of us have even been making teen numbers with Numicon to post, which shows great progress.

We are just about ready for our Nativity now and have done our first performance for some of the children from Ganton and Teeny Tots. We hope that you are all coming to see it next week. Our photographs will also be ready for you to order then too.
