

Emergency, can I help you?

The children have had another super week. They have been really interested in learning about our emergency services and this week we have focussed on the Police Service. They have discussed all the things that a police officer might do in their job, what transport they might use and their special uniforms. We have also practised (on our role play telephones) how we would ring the emergency services using 999. Some of the children were able to say where they lived, which was great.

In Maths we have continued to work on sorting and learning EVERYTHING about number 1, including number bonds. In English we have carried on telling the story of The Gingerbread Man. The children have explored the idea of story maps and have all had a go at drawing out all of the characters in order. Great work! Have a happy weekend everyone.
