

Week beginning 24th May 2021

Our bear hunt continues...

We have had a wonderful week continuing to explore the different landscapes/ habitats in the story 'We're going on a bear hunt.' We have explored the 'deep dark forrest,' the swirling whirling snowstorm,' the 'dark gloomy cave' and learnt about different types of bears! You may be please to know we are not going on a bear hunt again! The children have learnt so much from this story and I'm sure they can all retell this story at home for you.

In maths, this week, we have been comparing numbers by building them with towers of blocks and seeing which is bigger. We have done lots of ordering by size.

In our phonic lessons, our school starters have started to consolidate sounds we have already explored starting with m, a, s, d and t. We are getting really good at 'Fred talk,' many children knowing d-o-g blended together makes 'dog.' Well done children.

Our next topic, after half term, is farming and we will be using the text 'What the ladybird heard' by Julian Donaldson. On Tuesday, it is our dress up day and we invite the children to come to school as a farmer.

We hope you all have a wonderful half term, with lots of sunshine!
