

Spring Walk

A spring walk is one of those simple EYFS joys that feels a bit magical, and our trip to Pickering Park was exactly that. Clipboards in hand, the children set off as little nature detectives, eager to spot the signs of spring all around them.

We wandered through the park ticking off everything we could find — flowers, buds, birds, insects, blossom, and all the tiny details that show the world waking up again. The children were so excited each time they spotted something new, proudly marking it on their sheets and chatting about what they had found.

After exploring the springtime changes, we took a walk around the animals, which was a real highlight. The children spent time doing observational drawings, carefully sketching the animals, trees, and plants they could see. It was lovely to watch them slow down, look closely, and really notice the shapes, colours, and textures around them.

The learning that took place was incredible, from scientifically observation to early writing and drawing skills, but what stood out most was the children themselves. Their behaviour was outstanding and they were a real credit to our school.
