

Little Miss Emoji!

And the tales of the internet world.

Little miss emoji was playing her favourite online game: Purple Mash. She was playing Purple Mash: Times Tables Racing when a man called Mr Spam came up to her. He said in chat “Hi, little miss Emoji.” Miss Emoji got very scared and said, “yes that’s me..” Mr Spam then said something she did not like.

He said “what’s your address?” Miss emoji did not like this and so she decided to say “umm sorry that’s my information only.” Mr Spam then told her to add him and chat him on a group chat with him as the game was getting full now.

Miss Emoji was now on the group chat with Mr Spam. “Will you send a photo of yourself?” Little Miss Emoji was now uncomfortable with Mr Spam. So she then made up a lie. “umm I’ve got to go for dinner, at my friends house. So I’ll see you tomorrow maybe.” Mr Spam was angry but he just said “ok I’ll meet you tomorrow at Western Park, 9:30?” Miss Emoji was in a hurry so she just said yes and she left to tell her trusted grownups.

Little Miss Emoji went to Mr Block and Miss Stop, her two trusted grownups. She then told them about the online bully Mr Spam and how he asked to meet up tomorrow. “ok we didn't want you to know this for awhile but, we are the two internet safety Community Leaders!” Little Miss Emoji was shocked at this great news! “So basically superheros?” “yes but no, it’s a long story. Lets go and beat Mr Spam!” So the next day (when it was time to meet Mr Spam) Mr Block and Miss Stop went to the park with Little Miss Emoji and waited at the slide for Mr spam.

They waited and then an old man came up to them. “have you seen a horrible little girl anywhere? Her name is little miss Emoji.” “yes we have, but do you know who we are?” Mr Spam then said no. They told him what Little Miss Emoji had told them. “ohhh uhhh” But then Mr Spam ran off and they never saw him again.

Remember, everybody online is not always who you think they are. If anybody does this to you, tell an adult immediately. Remember these few rules for next time:

S: Safe, Stay safe online.

M: Meet, never meet anybody.

A: Accepting, never accept a stranger to be friends.

R: Reliable, always rely on parents.

T: Tell, tell somebody if your being cyber-bullied.

Stay Safe Online!

Little Miss Emoji By Erin Miller.