

Remote Reading

Read eBooks with audio read-along. All of them have Beyond Words quizzes.

Username: name.surname

Password: Heartlands20

Choose from a range of audiobooks and live readings on our Youtube playlist.

Read weekly VT articles and short stories here. All of them have quizzes.

Join the London Libraries Consortium through Hackney Library. Get instant access to thousands of eBooks, audiobooks, magazines and comics that you can read on your devices for free!

Listen to podcasts about sports, video games, history and even fictional drama on our podcast playlist. Check the note on each episode for suitability. Subscribe to download on your own podcast app.

- Read the original Diary of a Wimpy Kid comic
- Check out free eBooks on the Open Library
- Read free YA releases from Simon and Schuster
- Older readers can try an interactive visual novel, like Birdland

Top Tips

- ★ Aim to read for 30 minutes every day during the lockdown. Reading is fun, and helps your brain, your emotions, and your grades in all your subjects.
- ★ You can check to see whether a book has a quiz by searching for it on AR BookFind. If it's on there, it has one!
- ★ You can also search for books whose Book Level is in your ZPD. This helps you find books that should be challenging but not too hard. Check page 135 of your planner to see your ZPD.
- ★ If your book has no quiz, write your own for extra merit! Email Mr Auerbach George for instructions.
- ★ Quiz from home by logging in to Beyond Words through the Heartlands website.
- ★ Remember that you can get extra merit for reading books from recommended reading lists (scroll down for links). Check out the new lists for Spring Term! This is also a good place to go to find book suggestions.
- ★ If you have read and quizzed on a reading list book, email Mr Auerbach George so he can give you merit.
- ★ Be kind to yourself if you're finding reading difficult right now. Try an old favourite, an audiobook or a comic. Read in little bites. Email Mr Auerbach George if you need any more advice