

Lauren:

Stars reflecting like a diamond, eyes twinkling as if they light the night skies. Dresses dancing together like a buttercup rapidly moving towards another. The door's arms sway like never before. They open as if they're welcoming and guiding the guests. Waves of singing rapidly fly across the room in excitement.

Lightly, people take drinks but still start to get dizzy. Singing gracefully spreads around the room like a parade in the streets. The crashing gets more intense as the night progresses. At exactly 17:58, the night starts getting crazier and crazier.

People crashing to the floor, knocked out on drugs. Thumps no longer isolate in one place, it spreads like a plague. The banging streams like lightning. Hearts pacing. Screams and tears of laughter is like an elephant squirting out water from its trunk! The night gets madly loud with singing streams and batting floors. Romeo's heart begins to pounce out his chest. He looks for Rosaline with a blush on his face. He goes red by the second as he thinks of her. His eyes spark and shine as she flashes in his eyes. His body drops to the ground, the reason for this random circumstance is due to her beauty and passion towards others!

Brad:

The Capulet's eagerly anticipate the twilight to transpire THEN the Grand Ball will commence.

Stentorian voices barely audible from the blaring noise of the music flowing through the adjacent streets of Verona.

Frequenter's astonished by the building's prominent architectural features, protruding from the walls of the magnificent dwelling.

The sky is aflame with a wonderful light. The twinkling, glowing gleams are made by the candle lights that are surrounding the mansion.

The unbolted doorway becomingly consumes the guests. One by one each confirmed on entry. A slightly intoxicated few. Drinks are flowing, confidence growing as the guests talk louder than the beat of the music.

Passionate scenes, dirty dancing and utter debauchery fill every room as the party is soon to reach its climax.

Mercutio's ready to steal the limelight with some wild and energetic dance moves. The temperature rises and the guests congregate at the bottom of the stairway ready for a spectacular performance.

Just like the Opening Ceremony of the Olympics. The excitement rises and the crowd gets excited.

The dancing bodies are everywhere.

There's ecstasy, euphoria, joy and pleasure as the guests are relishing in contentment. The guests are singing, moving, touching. Some are even kissing.

The merrymakers are more excited now and the noise is ear-piercing to Romeo.

The effects of the drugs are kicking in, and he's hallucinating heavily.

His head now revolves fast like a spinning top.

Down. Down. Down. Spin. Spin.

Spin. Down. Down. Down. Spin.

Spin. Spin.

Romeo's head is swirling rapidly as if a whirlpool was inside his brain.

THEN!

Suddenly, A disorientated Romeo starts leaning predominately to one side and

