Massive thank you from Mrs Sprakes and Mr Voltaire.
We were very proud of all of you.

"Every young person should learn about climate change in school. It's marginal to most people's curriculums – not XP School as you're such a brilliant school!"

Ed Miliband – Shadow Secretary of State for Climate Change and Net Zero

After the success of our inaugural conference last year and with climate change at the heart of our activism as a Trust, we held this year's event on 13th July with the question: If not now, when? If not us, who?

A message from Dr Sprakes:

“The event was professional and inspiring. The students spoke brilliantly about the climate emergency with real passion, commitment and confidence. The fact that Ed Miliband said he couldn't add much to what the keynote speakers had said speaks volumes.

The stands the students were running were also thought provoking and on point.

I'm sure Peter won't mind me saying but he thought that XP was fantastic, with great staff who made him feel very welcome - he texted me later to say "the kids were awesome. That fight and tenacity is what the world needs!" I suspect he would be willing to work further with the school should you wish.

I've shown some of the video to my colleagues at work who couldn't believe that a secondary school would be doing such an activity. (And most of them went to private school!)
