Dear Parent/Carers,

Firstly, please accept our apologies for any confusion that has been caused following the correspondence shared with you all yesterday.

You will have received a letter from myself regarding our plans for your child's transition and explaining that more detail would follow. Unfortunately, documentation prepared for last year's transition has also been sent relating to tutor groups and activities. At this stage please disregard that information.

The better news is that the huge majority will still prove to be accurate but we need to share other important information with you first so that it will all make sense. This will include your child's tutor group allocation, some welcome information from their tutor, and a timescale for each activity as well as some additions.

Please be assured that we are doing all we can to ensure that transition for our new students is as useful as possible. In common with our colleagues in the other local secondary schools we were desperately hoping that we might be able to have students come to campus for a more traditional transition experience this year. We have explored a number of ways to do that but unfortunately advice from local and national government has, in the end, made that impossible.

Hopefully the information we will share next week, and the activities that follow before the holiday, will both reassure your child and also start to build that sense of excitement that we want them to have about coming to join us. We are also planning that the first couple of days back in August will cover some of the transition activities that we have not been able to deliver this term.

Once again, we are sorry for any confusion caused.

Yours sincerely

Will Teece
