

Dress Up for Joy

Friday 17th March

This year we will be supporting Comic Relief by taking part in Red Nose Day, joining thousands of people up and down the country, spreading joy and happiness. To mark the occasion we will be holding a non-uniform day, with a suggested donation of £1, raising money for those who need it the most.

We would like children to come in something that makes them happy, dressing up for joy! This might be your best disco wear or something funny, whatever makes you feel happy inside! Model those wacky hairstyles or crazy socks, it's entirely up to you!

What is Red Nose Day?

- Red Nose Day is a fundraising event run by Comic Relief that takes place every year.
- Comic Relief is a UK charity, which aims to create a world free from poverty.
- Last Red Nose Day the UK public raised an astonishing £99.4 million to help people living incredibly tough lives both here in the UK and Africa.

Let's do something amazing and support this great cause!

Thank you for your continued support.
