

LGBT BY SHANTAYA

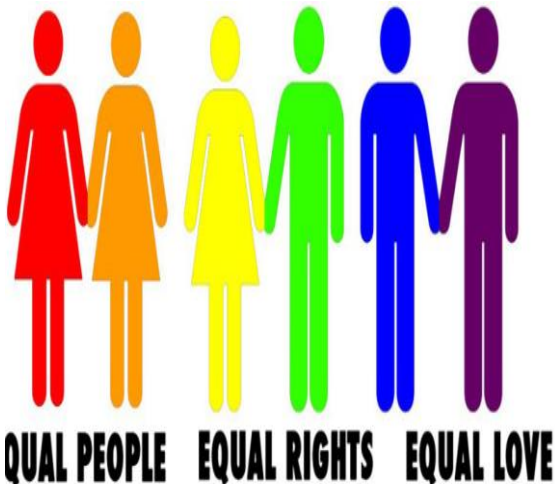

BBC
NEWS

SCHOOL REPORT

L.G.B.T is short for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender. It is important for us to respect this because a lot of people in the L.G.B.T community can be discriminated against it.

It isn't their fault; and to quote Lady gaga, they were born this way.

Everyone should be treated equally. Diversity should be celebrated! We are not all the same! Difference makes us unique and it makes us better, more understanding people.

We can't change who we are and we shouldn't feel the need to change ourselves for anyone else.

Being lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender doesn't change who you are, therefore we should respect others and fight against discrimination.

The bible teaches us that we should treat others how we want to be treated. We can't go around and treat certain people badly because of their sexual orientation.

We are all unique in many ways.

People from all over the world today face discrimination, in some countries access to education and jobs are denied because of who they love, how they look, or who they are.

Mr. Daniels says," Judging someone on their sexuality is like going to a restaurant and saying the table next to you can't have a dessert because you're on a diet!"

You don't have to change who you are to make other people happy.

To conclude, L.G.B.T is an important issue that everybody should be aware of. It's 2017 and it's time to accept everyone.

