Dear Parent/Carer,

We are always striving to improve our ways of working regarding attendance and are exploring an app - Study Bugs. We are still in the 'on-boarding' process and there has been a clerical error where they have activated the parental notifications before we are in a position to involve parents.

We apologise if you have received a notification and you should not receive any further communications before we are ready to launch, when we will send out information explaining how the app is to be used and its benefits.

Thank you for your understanding.

Yours sincerely
