How to read a Timetable

What is the thicker black line on the timetable?

The thicker black line shows that it is a break. We have a break after lesson 2 and a break after lesson 4. This is lunch and this is when you will also have enrichment time.

How do I read a timetable?

The easiest way to read the timetable is to put your finger at the top and look where it shows Monday week 1. We know it's week 1 because it has a 1 next to the Mon. Move your finger slowly down the column.

Tip – copy the timetable into your planner, use colouring pencils to code lessons e.g. red for all maths lessons.
If you need help with the timetable ask your form tutor or head of year

I know the room but how do I find it in school?

All of the doors at Dukes are numbered. If you are in the science department all of the doors will have Sc and then a number. If you are in maths the doors will have Ma then a number. Humanities and languages will be Hu and then a number and Ml and then a number. Design will be De and then a number. Every door for a lesson will have letters and numbers. When you get to spend time at Dukes you will spot this.

Who is my teacher?

Each box shows the teachers initials, the room number and the class and lesson. The most important bit for you is to look at the lesson and room number.
