Dear Parents and Carers,

We are excited to announce upcoming fieldwork to the Thackray Museum of Medicine. This experience is a brilliant opportunity to bring our current expedition, "You Give Me Fever," to life in an exciting and engaging way.

By exploring "Medicine Through Time," students will better understand the science and history content they have been studying this term, such as the development of vaccines and the evolution of medical ethics. This hands-on experience will be used directly to support learning back in the classroom.

To help fund this experience, we are asking for a voluntary contribution of what is financially suitable for your family. We want to ensure this opportunity is accessible to all students while helping cover the costs of the museum entry and transport.

Payments can be made via ParentPay, where the trip is now available for contributions.

Key Information:

XP - Wednesday 25th February - 8:30 am - 3:15 pm

XP East - Thursday 26th February - 8:30 am - 3:15 pm

Lunch: Students will need a packed lunch. If your child is in receipt of free school meals, a lunch will be provided.

Equipment: Students should bring their usual school supplies, including pens and iPads, as they will be capturing information to support their learning this expedition.

Dress: Full school uniform is required.

If you have any questions regarding this fieldwork, please do not hesitate to contact us at:
