iciiii	Definition
1. The Berlin Ultimatum	Growing frustrated with the existence of West Berlin within the German Democratic Party, Khrushchev issued a demand that the Western Nations left Berlin.
2. The 'brain drain'	One of the reasons for the Berlin Ultimatum was Khrushchev's annoyance at the huge numbers of young, well-educated people leaving Communist Germany through the 'hole in the Iron Curtain' in West Berlin.

interviewed he admitted spying on behalf of the USA.

immediately ended the 'brain drain'. The wall was reinforced and stood until 1990.

refused to recognise the new leader and stopped doing business with the island.

world held its breath and anticipated the start of a third world war.

in the event that any country threatened the stability of the alliance.

weapons in space, underwater or in the atmosphere.

Union with the USA.

The invasion was a disaster and made the new US President (JFK) look out of his depth.

in Czechoslovakia whilst allowing greater trade and movement with the Western nations.

moving street signs, overthrowing buses and waving a Czech flag in Prague (the capital).

In the days leading up to the Paris Summit, Gary Powers (a US Pilot) was shot down by the USSR flying over Soviet airspace. When

In 1961 Khrushchev ordered the construction of a barbed wire fence around the GDR edge of Berlin, surrounding West Berlin. This

Cuban Dictator Batista was overthrown and replaced with Fidel Castro. Castro proved popular with the Cuban people but the USA

To encourage the overthrow of Castro, the USA supported a number of Cuban exiles to return to Cuba and try to gain popular support.

After a U2 spy plane flew over Cuba and discovered a number of missile sites, the island of Cuba was blockaded. For thirteen days the

The first of a range of nuclear treaties, signed following the Cuban Missiles Crisis. The UK, USA and USSR agreed to stop testing nuclear Alexander Dubcek introduced a series of reforms, known as 'socialism with a human face'. He was attempting to maintain Communism

Following the invasion of Czechoslovakia, Soviet leader Brezhnev, introduced the Brezhnev Doctrine. It justified a Warsaw Pact invasion

Having learnt from the failure of the Hungarian Uprising, the Czech people used a series of non-violent ways to resist. These included

To avoid a similar situation, to the Cuban Missiles Crisis, the superpowers placed a direct telephone link that connected the Soviet

3. The U2 Spy Crisis

4. The Berlin Wall

6. The Bay of Pigs

5. The Cuban

7. The Cuban

Missiles Crisis

8. The 'hot-line'

9. The Limited Test

Ban Treaty

Spring

Doctrine

12. Passive resistance

10. The Prague

11. The Brezhnev

Revolution