

KS5 IT and Computer Science

AIDAN WALTON

Aidan clearly loved the challenge of Computer Science throughout his time on the course, happily working through some of the most complex challenges at the board, in front of the class. I know he'd love me to mention how organised he was, proudly displaying his folder at every opportunity. He was a pleasure to teach and I honestly believe we learned as much from him at times on the course, as he has a that very rare blend of skills for a Computer Scientist, both incredibly able and confident enough to explain his thinking (he'd prefer I called this 'crack'). I have no doubt Aidan will now be enjoying Computing Science at University and will go on to earn far more money than we'll ever see...and I'll be proud of him for it!
